Language disclaimer

On the Road was published in 1957. It was a near instant sensation and remains influential to American counter culture to this day partially because it was such an unconventional narrative. As such, there is language in this text that some may find objectionable. The readers of this marathon are asked to read the text as presented. You have been warned, and absolved. It is our hope this can be an opportunity to further outside discussions about the power of language.

The Pollard Memorial Library thanks all the Ride Crews, Volunteers, and Readers for participating in this 1st annual On the Road Marathon Reading
